

an-Bank-Auskunfts-anfragesystem, by Kiyoshi Endo (Associate Professor, Chiba University of Commerce).

(4) Future of the Japanese Design Law, by Keita Sato (Associate Professor, Chuo University).

(5) Nichtigkeit und Schadensersatzansprüche Dritter als zivilrechtliche Sanktion gemäß dem Antimonopolgesetz, by Midori Akamatsu (Associate Professor, Kurume University).

Prof. YASUHIRO OSAKI

Assoc. Prof. NOBUO NAKAMURA

7. Labor Law

The 87th General Meeting of the Japanese Labor Law Association was held at Kobe University on May 14, 1994, and the 88th General Meeting was held at Chuo University on October 15, 1995. The themes and the reports of each are as follows:

1. The 87th General Meeting

Theme: Labor Law Problems concerning the Transfer of Workers between Companies.

Reports:

(1) Labor Law Problems concerning the Transfer of Workers between Companies, by Takashi Kikuchi (Professor, Kyushu University).

(2) Voluntary Assignment of Legal Obligations by Agreements on Farming-out (Shukko), by Yuichi Uemura (Lecturer, Nagasaki University).

(3) La Mobilité du salarié au sein d'un groupe des sociétés et les conditions du travail, by Susumu Noda (Professor, Kyushu University).

(4) Employment Security Legislation and Contract of Employment relating to Transfers of Employees, by Kenji Arita (Lecturer, Yamaguchi University).

(5) The Mobility of Employees between Companies and Employee's Duty not to Compete—Especially relating to Employee's Duty not to Compete after Termination of Employment, by Hiroshi Ishibashi (Professor, Kumamoto Gakuen University).

2. The 88th General Meeting

Theme: Internationalization of Labor Relations and Conflict of Laws
Reports:

(1) On the Border: The International Dimension of Labor and Employment Law, by Ryuichi Yamakawa (Associate Professor, Tsukuba University).

(2) Internationales Arbeitsrecht in Europe, by Takashi Yonezu (Associate Professor, Tokyo Metropolitan University).

(3) International Employment Relations in Private International Law, by I Chen (LL.M., Tokyo University, special member of the Association of the Promotion of Japanese Academy).

(4) Legal Issues Arising from International Labor and Employment Relations on Japanese Soil; A Focus on the Determination of Applicable Laws, by Takashi Araki (Associate Professor, Tokyo University).

(5) Rechtliche Probleme um die Internationale Arbeitsverhältnisse in Ausland, by Shinobu Nogawa (Associate Professor, Tokyo Gakugei University).

Prof. KAZUHISA NAKAYAMA
TOMOKO SASANUMA