

Professor, Hokkaido University).

- (F) Administrative Reform, by Akira Morita (Professor, University of Tokyo).
- (G) The Image of the “Big Judiciary” after the Judicial Reform, by Hideyuki Ohsawa (Professor, Keio University).
- (H) The Limits of Rational Order: the Control of Accidents, by Mikio Kawai (Associate Professor, Toin University of Yokohama).
- (I) Gender-Politics in Contemporary Japanese Society, by Kimio Ito (Professor, Osaka University).

(2) Viewpoints on Judicial Reform

- (A) Law and the Economic Analysis of Judicial Reform in Japan, by Hideo Fukui (Professor, Hosei University).
- (B) Japan’s Newly-Proposed Quasi-Jury System and the Introduction of Checks and Balances into the Japanese Legal System, by Hiroshi Fukurai (Associate Professor, University of California, Santa Cruz, U.S.).

10. Legal Philosophy

The Japan Association for Legal Philosophy held the 2001 General Meeting at Tohoku Gakuin University on November 9 and 10, 2001.

Common Theme: The Problems of Public Order in an Information Society.

Workshops:

- (1) Women’s Right to Self-Determination During Medical Treatment: Diagnoses Carried Out Before the Births of Babies, by Kumiko Ishimura (Osaka Prefecture University).
- (2) Cultural Resources and Marketization, by Hiroshi Oe (Hokkaido University of Education, Hakodate Campus).
- (3) Equality and a Comment on Equalization, by Atsushi Tsuneki (Osaka University).
- (4) Law and Social Power: the Reconstruction of “Private Law”, by Yuki Asano (Kanazawa University).

- (5) The Good Reasoning of Holmes: C. S. Peirce/O. W. Holmes/ Realistic True Pragmatism, by Mitsuo Kanai (Tokyo Metropolitan University).
- (6) Theories on “the Institution of the State from Ancient Times” and Lawson, by Youichi Yamamoto (Kagawa University).
- (7) Value-Pluralism and Liberalism, by Shinichiro Hama (Doshisha University).
- (8) The Derivation of the Meaning of Legal Norms and Radical Conventionalism: Through Legal Regulation to the Market, by Yachiko Yamada (Toyo University).
- (9) Comments on the Common Theme “The Problems of Public Order in an Information Society”, by Ichiro Sako (Kyushu University).

Symposiums:

- (1) Law, Information, and Technology, by Ichiro Sako (Kyushu University).
- (2) Reexamination of the Concept of Privacy, and Problems of Realism, by Masahiko Mizutani (Kyoto University).
- (3) The Image of the Future of the Law on Copyright, by Yoshiyuki Tamura (Hokkaido University).
- (4) Comments (on Presentations 1 to 3), by Yoshiharu Matsuura (Nagoya University).
- (5) Comments (on Presentations 1 to 3), by Hideaki Serizawa (Tohoku University).
- (6) The High Information Society, Changes in Politics Publicity, by Takahiro Hattori (Okayama University).
- (7) Network and Community: Beyond the Bipolarization of Theory about the Information society, by Takehiro Oya (Nagoya University).
- (8) Comments (on Presentations 6 and 7), by Shigenori Matsui (Osaka University).
- (9) Comments (on Presentations 6 and 7), by Toru Aono (Kanazawa University).